BETWEEN THE TWO

It is often hard to come to a conclusion and make a choice from our display of Carpets and Rugs shown in such a multitude of designs that please. The opinion may be divided, but you can't make a mistake; you'll get something worth having in any case. We're showing more new designs this fall than any other house in town, and in every line of goods our prices are from 10 per cent. to 25 per cent. the lowest.

Our present stock of Furniture has never been exceeded in variety, design, pattern, quality and value, and in prices. We manipulate competitors. It's the nick of time to buy now when you can get such values as we are offering.

THE VENEZUELA AFFAIR.

Stead Praises Our Navy and Says England Ought Not to Belittle the Monroe Doctrine.

London, Oct. 24.—Mr. William T. Stead, formerly editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, publishes an article in the Westminster Gazette in which he says that England ought not to belittle the significance of the outburst of American sentiment over the Venezuelan question. The Americans, he says, have built up a navy which they have some reason to be proud of, and the Monroe doctrine is now one of national faith.

"When the twentieth century dawns upon us," he continues, "we will have to recognize the United States as a naval power of the first class. Nevertheless," he concludes, "our case is so strong that we need not fear to refer the question to any honest arbitrator, but first preparation must be made for violation of our territory."

Mrs. Parnell to Live Here.

Bordentown, N. J., Oct. 24.—Mrs. Della T. Parnell, mother of the late Charles Stewart Parnell, whose household effects were sold at auction yesterday, will go to New York in a few days to live there permanently.

The proceeds of the sale did not amount to over $500. The articles sold were old paintings, vases, ornaments, books, carpets, bedding and other household effects, and an old piano which Mrs. Parnell had had since she was a girl.

Mrs. Parnell is in feeble health, and she has never fully recovered from the mysterious assault made upon her one night last winter while she was on her way home from Bordentown to Ironsides. She was unconscious for several weeks as a result of her injuries.

A Letter from C. D. Rose.

London, Oct. 24.—C. D. Rose wrote from Newmarket to Percy Thellusson, secretary of the Royal Victoria Yacht club, on Tuesday as follows:

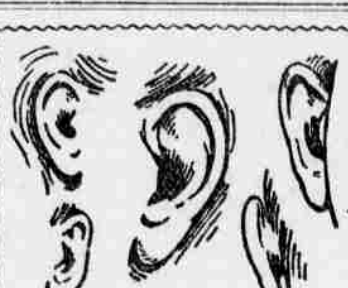

"In view of the repeated comments that my challenge for the America's cup might be construed as an expression of opinion on Lord Dunraven's action in connection with the last race, I beg you will kindly cable to the New York Yacht club committee that I desire to withdraw my challenge.

"I should like to add that when I decided to send a challenge I did so solely in the interest of sport and with a desire to win back the America's cup, and that no question concerning any of the incidents of the last series of races in any way influenced me. I therefore naturally deplore that my action has been misconstrued."

The Globe, commenting on Mr. Rose's withdrawal of his challenge for the America's cup, says:

"While we recognize the weight of Mr. Rose's reasons for withdrawing his challenge, yachtsmen will be greatly disappointed at his withdrawal. We think he is somewhat too thin-skinned."

The St. James' Gazette says: "Mr. Rose was probably right. If English and American yachtsmen want a proper trial, let them choose water upon which both will have equal chances."

THE FOOT GUARD.

The Arrival at Asheville, N. C.—A Grand Time—Fine Reception—A Day of Sight-seeing—Inspected the Vanderbilt Mansion—Off for Washington—Praise for the "Footers" From the Atlanta Constitution—A Dramatic Spectacle.

Battery Park, Hotel Asheville, N. C., Oct. 24.—We arrived here at 8:30 this morning from Atlanta, all well. We were met at the depot by the mayor and citizens' committee, and escorted to the Battery Park hotel. Spent the day sight seeing, included in which was a drive taken to the principal points of interest, not omitting to mention a trip by the entire company to the Vanderbilt palace and extensive grounds at the special invitation of Mr. George Vanderbilt, who made the company his special guests. Two concerts were given at the hotel, one after the morning parade and the other in the afternoon. We left Atlanta in a blaze of glory. Just before departing the Guard made a short street parade. The immense throng turned out to see the boys off, and most enthusiastically and enthusiastically cheered the company. As the train departed the applause was tremendous. We leave here at 5 p. m. for Washington for reception at Washington tomorrow.

PRIDE FROM THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

The Atlanta, Ga., Constitution, says of the Foot Guard and Connecticut day at the exposition: "The parade yesterday morning of the Governor's Foot Guard was a most imposing spectacle, and as they marched under the escort of the Gate City Guard to the exposition ground it was a royal reception the visitors were given by the thousands who lined the sidewalks and cheered them as they passed."

"Out Peachtree the column moved with the steady tramp of veterans. At every step the famous Foot Guard made the people along the line cheer and wave their handkerchiefs. A regular ovation was tendered them from the time the command to move was given until the column was halted in front of the auditorium at the exposition grounds. Old veterans waved their hats exultantly at the sight of the British coated soldiers and ladies clapped their hands. The sidewalks and windows contained many thousands who clamored for space to see the parade as it passed by, and elbowed their way through the mass of people and vehicles."

"The column of soldiers that passed through the streets of Atlanta yesterday morning as the escort to Governor Coffin made a most handsome appearance."

The Governor's Foot Guard of Connecticut, the oldest military organization in the country and representing the state of the Nutmeg, attracted a great deal of attention as the line was being formed in front of the Kimball.

"Connecticut's Foot Guard, keeping step to the inspiring strains of the bands, marched with the precision of the veterans they are. Like clockwork they wheeled into Decatur street and tramped over the Belgian blocks. Straight as an arrow the soldiers moved on, their proud heads erect and looking to the front. Their handsome uniforms and glistening accoutrements dazzled under the rays of the sun, and the black plumes in their helmets were in striking contrast to the bright colored suits and trimmings of gold. The column moved as one man, and steadily onward with quick step they marched into Peachtree street."

The Constitution in its account of the brilliant exercises at the Auditorium gives the following description of a dramatic scene, the governor of Georgia and the governor of Connecticut being the actors:

"Turning to Governor Atkinson, Governor Coffin exclaimed in burning words of eloquence:

"I extend my hand in friendship to you as the representative of Georgia."

Governor Atkinson stepped forward and, amid the cheers of the audience, grasped the hand of Governor Coffin.

"Standing here in the center of the south, surrounded by people of the north and south, a New England man speaking for New England men and women, I extend to you, sir, the governor of the great state of Georgia, and through you to the people of the south, the most cordial congratulation upon the marvelous success of this great southern exposition."

"We glory in your achievement and pray for your prosperity. We pledge you here and now the right hand of brotherly fellowship, the spirit of mutual helpfulness and earnest co-operation in all practical and patriotic purposes in individual, sectional and national life."

It was an impressive scene—the two governors standing with clasped hands and looking each other full in the face. The effect on the audience was electrical and everyone in the building stood and shouted and cheered. Nothing like it has ever been seen, and it was a fitting expression of the love and loyalty of Connecticut for the states of the south."

Shot a Burglar.

Hackensack, N. J., Oct. 24.—Eugene Bullinger, who lives at the junction of Myer and Park streets, this place, was awakened from his sleep early this morning by the moving of a window sash in his house.

Picking up his revolver, which was lying near at hand, he ran down the stairs just in time to see the form of a man about to enter the open window.

Mr. Bullinger fired and the burglar dropped to the ground. He escaped, but investigation showed that he had left a trail of blood behind him.

Mr. Bullinger thinks that he wounded the man in the shoulder.

Assets in Japan.

New York, Oct. 24.—Bagnall & Hills, who carry on a general electrical supply business in Yokohama, Japan, with an office in this city, assigned here. The liabilities are not yet known, nor the assets, which are all in Japan. Mr. Bagnall is in this city now trying to make a settlement with creditors here.

WESTVILLE.

The annual fair of the Westville fire department will take place November 12-13. It bids fair to be a big success. There will be a number of articles awarded by drawing, and the most popular young man and the most popular young lady of the place will receive a handsome present after the matter is decided by ballot. There will probably be a parade of the fire department the first night. The committee in charge of the fair are Chief Ringwald of the department, Alexander Fraser, R. E. Wellman, G. L. Hinman and Edward A. Foote.

Dunraven's Reply.

London, Oct. 24.—Lord Dunraven has replied to the telegram sent to him yesterday by Louis H. Moore, the London manager of the United Press, in regard to the interview furnished by Dixon Kemp, the authenticity of which has been questioned.

His lordship says he has had several conversations with Mr. Kemp since his return from the United States, but upon none of these occasions did he say anything for publication.

"If Mr. Kemp," he adds, "made use of any remarks I made to him by publishing them, or put forward any views as being mine, it was entirely unauthorized and without my knowledge."

Sarah Prescott Kellogg.

Says the Springfield Republican on Tuesday: "Miss Sarah Prescott Kellogg died at her home in Shelburne Center Monday. She had been in poor health for several years, but she died very suddenly of apoplexy. Miss Kellogg was a woman of exceptional accomplishments and was very well versed in literature. She lived with her brother, A. I. Kellogg. Miss Kellogg was a frequent visitor in Waterbury, at the home of her brother, S. W. Kellogg, who with several members of the family will attend the funeral, which takes place tomorrow at Shelburne Center. Miss Kellogg was a graduate of Mt. Holyoke, and most of her poems have been published in a dainty volume, entitled 'Rhymes for All Seasons.'"

More Trouble in Turkey.

London, Oct. 24.—A despatch from Constantinople under date of yesterday says that the condition of affairs in the provinces of Aleppo and Aidana inspires grave fears that an uprising of Christians, with consequent bloodshed, is imminent.

According to reports from those provinces, emanating from Turkish sources, the inhabitants of Zetoun, in Asia Minor, on the route from Anaher to Aleppo, are meditating a revolt. These people greatly resemble the inhabitants of Sassoon in general characteristics and are well armed.

Vienna, Oct. 24.—A despatch from Constantinople represents the Liberal movement there as being more marked than ever.

The display of seditious placards has been resumed, and it is reported that several prominent Socialists and notable persons who have been conspicuous in opposition to the Liberal movement have mysteriously disappeared.

The authorities have decided on taking rigid military measures to suppress the Liberal element.

FATAL TRAIN WRECK.

An Express Train Crashes Into a Freight Wreck—Two Killed and Eight Injured. Altoona, Pa., Oct. 24.—A car broke down in an eastbound freight train at Trimmer's Rock, near Baileys, on the Middle division of the Pennsylvania railroad at 2:15 o'clock this morning. This caused the wreck of two or three cars which were thrown over on the north track, immediately in front of the Southwestern express, which was passing at the time.

The engine of the passenger train struck the wreck and was thrown over into the canal, causing the instant death of Engineer Daniel Workil and Fireman J. W. Haines, both of Harrisburg.

The first four mail cars were also wrecked and took fire. Eight mail clerks were injured, none of them seriously except C. A. Chamberlain of Harrisburg, who had his left arm broken. Traffic was not delayed long, as the passenger trains were kept running eastward and westward by way of Sunbury and Lewistown.

So far, reports received at the general offices indicate that no passengers were hurt. The bodies of the engineer and fireman have not yet been recovered.

What Shall it be for Breakfast?

Shall it be a pasty oatmeal which will clog the digestive tract, or shall it be a smooth oat food, each kernel standing out by itself, an oatmeal which can be eaten without fear of indigestion or dyspepsia?

If it's to be the latter kind it must be H-O, no other will do.
